Hundreds Flee Flooding Rivers

More Rain Expected To Add To Damages

By The Associated Press
Heavy weekend rains sent dozens of creeks and rivers over their banks and left scores of residents homeless today in parts of West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

No casualties were reported in the widening flood zone, but high waters Sunday caused heavy damage to roads, bridges and many small towns bordering the Ohio River and its tributaries.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Cincinnati predicted that the Ohio River would rise to within a half foot of flood stage there by Wednesday.

A bureau spokesman said additional rainfall expected Tuesday night or Wednesday may send the river over its banks between Galipolis and Louisville.

In West Virginia, state police said Weston was the hardest hit community. It was isolated as the West Fork River crested and then began receding.

The same river also went over its banks at Clarksburg, W. Va., and crested at 4 1/2 feet above flood level. An estimated 100 Clarksburg families were evacuated.

Rivers and streams poured out of their banks in Scioto County, Ohio, marooning residents and forcing others to flee in Portsmouth, North Moreland, Eden Park and New Boston.

Portsmouth firemen used boats to rescue a number of residents from their inundated homes.

All along the 45-mile route of the Monongahela River between the West Virginia border and Pittsburgh, communities stood by for high water. Commercial navigation on the river was halted.

At the point where the Monongahela and Allegheny merge at Pittsburgh to form the Ohio, the Ohio crested at 20 1/2 feet early today and started falling. Flood stage is 25 feet.

United School Bond Bids To Be Opened

The United Local School district board of education will open bids at a meeting Friday night, March 8 for the sale of $211,000 in bonds to finance an addition to the United School building on Route 9 near New Garden.

Voters in the school district approved the $211,000 bond issue last November to finance construction of an addition to the school, make alterations and purchase new equipment.

School Board Clerk H. C. Dorr said $11,000 of the bonds would be retired in 1958 and $10,000 during each ensuing year until all are retired.

Columbiana Council, along with other councils throughout the nation, is celebrating the 47th birthday anniversary of Boy Scouting during the week of Feb. 8 to 15.

Presently district explorer organizer for the organization and extension committee, Roessler recently organized an Explorer Troop at the First Methodist Church here.

Roessler, who resides at 628 E. Lincoln Way, is a former Salem resident and is employed by the Church Budget Envelope Co. here.

He joined the scouting program in September of 1914 when a group of boys in a Methodist Sunday School class expressed a desire to become Boy Scouts. The teacher, Lee Chamberlain, agreed to be their leader, and he re-organized Salem's original Troop One which had disbanded several years after its organization in 1910.

"Chick" passed tenderfoot requirements in March of 1915, advancing to second class in August and first class in December of that same year.

In July of 1916, he became an Eagle Scout, the second boy in Salem to achieve the highest rank in scouting. Salem's first Eagle Scout was Brooks Emeny, who had passed the requirements earlier while at Culver Military Academy.

Roessler's other achievements in the program include: Liberty Loan award for outstanding achievement in wartime, May, 1918; gold quilt award for journalism, 1945; God and Country award, 1946; and emergency service corps for community protection and Sea Scout quartermaster explorer awards in 1949.

By August of 1950, Roessler had earned 117 merit badges, the total number available at that time. In 1951, he was presented the gold award for explorer and observer in the Air Scout field.

In 1953, he was made a charter member of the Order of the Arrow. Holder of the Eagle Scout badge with one bronze and six silver.

Democrats Object To Ike's Mideast Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today adoption of the Eisenhower Middle East resolution would mean "blanket transfer" to the President of congressional powers to declare war.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), taking a similar tack, said the resolution, as presented, "breaks down the system of checks and balances which the framers of the Constitution believed to be the bulwark of government by the people."

The two senators expressed their objections as the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees arranged to resume hearings on the administration's request for special military-economic powers to block Communist expansion in the strategic Middle East.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said he expects the committees to begin drafting the final form of the resolution today. He said he thinks Senate debate may begin by Friday, with passage likely next week. The House has approved the resolution, 355-61.

Ike To Meet British Premier March 21-24

To Talk In Bermuda; Mollet Will Visit President In U.S.

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower's headquarters announced today he will meet in Bermuda March 21-24 with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain. The President also will confer in Washington Feb. 26-27 with French Premier Guy Mollet.

Arrangements for the meetings underscore efforts to heal differences which developed between the United States on the one hand and Britain and France on the other as a result of the Suez Canal crisis.

Formal announcement of the conferences, forecast some time ago, came as efforts continued to get Israel to withdraw its troops from Egypt.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Eisenhower and Macmillan, who recently succeeded Sir Anthony Eden as Britain's prime minister, will meet in Bermuda at the President's suggestion. That statement dealt with the site of meeting.

Responding to a question, Hagerty said suggestions that such a meeting be held came from both the President and Macmillan.

The press secretary added that also was so regarding the forthcoming Eisenhower-Mollet meeting.

3 Persons Hurt In Traffic Mishaps Here

Three persons were injured and three were arrested in five auto accidents that occurred on city streets Saturday and Sunday.

David Allison, 20, of 665 Ohio Blvd., Salem Heights, was treated at the Central Clinic for lacerations, contusions and abrasions of both legs after he was thrown from a car driven by Leroy Foust Jr., 31, of 861 W. Wilson St. Sunday at 12:01 a.m. at the intersection of Ellsworth Ave. and 5th St.

Police said Allison was thrown from Foust's car when it collided with an auto operated by Carl J. Rohrer, 24, of Washingtonville. Rohrer was also treated at the hospital for bruises of both knees.

Foust was cited for failing to yield the right of way, police said. Charles Baird, 17, of RD 5, Salem, was treated at the Central Clinic for a possible fracture of the shoulder after a collision between his car and an auto operated by Agnes O'Keefe of RD 4, Salem at the intersection of N. Lincoln Ave. and 6th St. Sunday at 7:04 p.m.

Mrs. O'Keefe was fined $10 for failing to yield the right of way.

Joseph Sassone, 16, of Youngstown, was arrested for failing to yield the right of way after his car collided with an auto driven by David Steffel, 18, of 1146 E. 3rd St. Saturday at 9:09 p.m. at the

Ike Tells Congress U. S. Policy Of Cutting Tariffs Builds Prosperity

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today the U. S. policy of gradually reducing tariffs is contributing to national security, domestic prosperity and stimulation of world trade.

The President's views were set forth in a special message to Congress accompanying his first annual report to the lawmakers on this country's trade agreements program.

The report is required under the Reciprocal Trade Extension Act of 1955. That law authorized the President to reduce existing tariffs a total of 15 per cent in three annual stages.

In his message, Eisenhower reported in general terms that such cuts are being made. He also called anew for congressional approval of U. S. membership in the Organization for Trade Cooperation (OTC), set up by the trade agreements nations to improve administration of the international program.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) told a seminar sponsored by the Abraham Lincoln Club in Chicago Saturday that "denouncing Franklin Roosevelt Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower" for the growth of big government is a waste of time.

Jenner called for election in 1958 of a Republican Congress pledged to cut spending. He criticized Eisenhower's request for authority to use troops in the Middle East if necessary and to spend up to 200 million dollars in economic aid there.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) assailed Eisenhower's atomic peace program apparently referring to a projected 82-nation atomic energy agency through which this and other nations having atomic programs would share materials and know-how with those which have none. He said the United States party seem to overlook that man-made city."

Sen. Aiken Says Public Supports Ike's 'Modern' Republican Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today he thinks the voting public supports President Eisenhower's efforts to "modernize" the Republican party even if some GOP members don't.

The conflicting views were set forth during the weekend at a meeting of party conservatives in Chicago and at a Lincoln Day dinner in Kansas City where the speaker was Meade Alcorn, new chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Aiken who likes to be classed as "liberal" said in an interview he doesn't believe the conservative criticisms of Eisenhower reflect majority opinion within the party.

"The voting public is behind Eisenhower's 'modern Republicanism' if an election majority of nine million votes means anything," Aiken said. "Some people in the party seem to overlook that man-made city."

Fears Any Move Might Increase Mideast Crisis

Hamarskjold Says He Can't Get Israeli Troops Out Of Egypt

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold warned today that any U. N. steps to punish Israel at this time might complicate the Middle East situation.

In a special report to the General Assembly, Hammarskjold said that he had made no progress in getting Israel to withdraw from Egypt and the Gaza Strip. He asked for guidance as to what he should do next.

He had no suggestions on this beyond a continuation of his contacts with Israeli and Egyptian officials.

He did take note, however, of moves to impose sanctions on Israel by pointing out that the Assembly could only make recommendations. He then questioned whether this would not serve only to introduce "new elements of conflict."

The report was issued as delegates continued intense private talks as to what action the Assembly should take.

The 27-nation Asian-African bloc, which is considering a demand for economic, military and financial restrictions against Israel, called a meeting for this afternoon.

The Assembly will meet either Tuesday or Wednesday to take up Hammarskjold's report, which made these points:

1. Israel had failed to make clear whether it would pull its civil administration, as well as its troops, out of the Gaza Strip, if the U. N. found ways to safeguard Israel's interests.

2. Israel had not answered his question as to whether U. N. forces would be permitted on the Israeli side of the border.

3. Egypt had re-affirmed privately its "intent to observe fully the provisions of the (1949) armistice agreement."

Israel's refusal to spell out her intentions, he said, "has complicated the efforts to achieve implementation of the resolutions of the General Assembly."

Hammarskjold insisted that negotiations could not be conducted

More Campaign Money

The over-simplified solution for all problems of campaign spending is to cut down the amount of money that can be spent on politics.

Thus, if visible spending in the general election last year was $33 million and the invisible spending was that much more, plus, a popular judgment will be that too much money was spent and something should be done about it.

A sensible judgment might be that not enough money was spent and something should be done about that, instead.

The high cost of competing for the people's attention in a country that spends more money promoting cosmetics than it spends on promoting its form of government calls for reappraisal of political budgets.

The invidious comparison has been made painfully evident in the programming of television shows during political campaigns, when the fantastic cost of buying time reduces politicians to brief interruptions of commercial spots that already have interrupted the main show.

As long as politicians and their backers are kept on the defensive about campaign spending, they will have to do one of two things—practice penury or deceit. The emphasis has been put on the wrong place.

Politicians and political parties should be urged to spend enough money to make representative democracy in the United States at least as popular as beer.

Public Relations Bloopers

Sometimes the impression is made by the thriving business of public relations that nothing is left to chance any more; that the PR experts have everything at their fingertips. Then, close together, occur two of the worst bloopers imaginable.

Dave Beck, a unionist who has been under the guns of other unionists and coming within range of a congressional committee curious about testimony he might give on management of welfare funds and related matters, leaves the country suddenly and is caught up to in the Bahamas en route to Europe.

The U.S. oil industry, whose vital importance to each and all of us never had been demonstrated so dramatically as it was demonstrated by trouble in the Middle East, paralyzing Europe, failed to call attention to what it was trying to do to ease tension. Instead, it called attention to its intentions to raise prices in an international emergency.

There still is plenty of work for the PR experts.

Surely no PR expert advised Mr. Beck to leave the country when he was under scrutiny, or advised the oil industry to try to make hay while hell was popping.

Grapevine To Trouble

Utah State Prison administrators have promised to consider 43 complaints by inmates as the price of calling off a 12-hour prison riot. Prison grapevines now will spread the news from Utah.

This was what might be called an "easy riot." No one was killed. There was no extensive property damage. The militia did not have to be turned out. Utah taxpayers were let off easy. But the riot was a success.

The question in the wake of this riot is the same as the question in the wake of more serious and costlier riots in the last few years: Is rioting the only way desperate inmates of a prison can command attention for grievances intolerable enough to make them welcome an outbreak of violence?

Every prison has problems. But not every prison has riots. Is the difference accounted for by the fact that some administrators have learned how to relieve the pressure on desperate men living behind bars while others merely increase the pressure until there is an explosion?

Footnote On Delinquency

Whenever the dead ashes of the prohibition era are stirred, there is blubbering among sentimentalists for the dear dead days etc.

But when Belle Livingston, a well known speakeasy queen of the New York scene, died the other day at the age of 92, it was hard to feel blubbery.

It might be better, all things considered, to lay off blubbering about anything connected with the prohibition era. That kind of blubbering has become embarrassing.

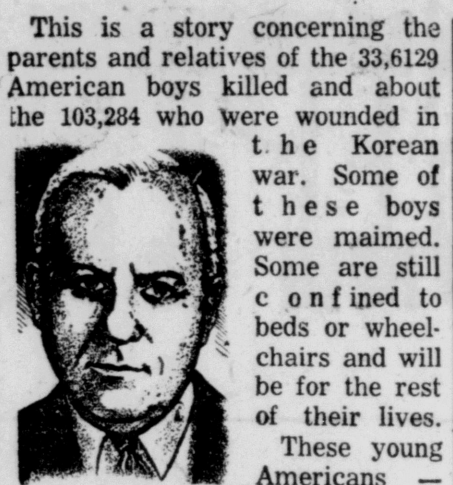

It calls attention to something survivors of the era would like to forget—the fact they once lived through and contributed their share to an ordeal of delinquency as gharish and scary as anything happening in mid-century.

The difference between the delinquency of the twenties and that of the fifties, if a difference must be found, is that today's brand is more closely confined to the teen-age group. In the twenties, adults sometimes set the pace for their own offspring in a race to see who could show more contempt for decency. The Belle Livingstons and the Al Capones held the stakes and drew a fat commission.

Korea Forgotten?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Red China Remains Aggressor In Korea

This is a story concerning the 33,612 American boys killed and about the 103,284 who were wounded in the Korean war. Some of these boys were maimed. Some are still confined to beds or wheelchairs and will be for the rest of their lives. These young Americans—and the more than a million who came back safely—were put into uniform and asked to serve the United Nations in repelling Communist aggression in Korea. The sacrifices they made, the bravery they exhibited, the anguish their parents and relatives felt as word came of the tragic fate of so many of them at the hands of the enemy are not forgotten by the families of these soldiers and sailors marines and airmen.

But has the rest of America forgotten them?

Today as one reads a press dispatch from New York, there is reason to doubt whether even the publishers of some newspapers remember what happened in Korea. For it says that a group of publishers constituting the board of directors of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, has passed a resolution declaring that American reporters should be allowed to travel "in any country with which the United States is not at war."

THE STATED PURPOSE of the resolution was to petition President Eisenhower and the State Department to lift the ban on travel by American newsmen who have been invited by the Communist government in Peiping to go to Red China.

The assumption in the resolution is that the United States is "not at war" with Red China's government. But it is a wrong assumption.

It is surprising that such a resolution could be adopted and sent not only to the President but to the vice president and the speaker of the house as representing the viewpoint of American Newspaper Publishers.

Not only is the United States still in a state of war with the Red China government but so also is the United Nations. In fact, the military forces of the United States are today stationed in Korea guarding the armistice line as the official agents of the United Nations.

No peace treaty with the Communist Chinese has ever been signed. The armistice terms have repeatedly been violated. No access to North Korea has been given by the Communists even to the inspection teams from the United Nations charged with the duty of observing whether the armistice terms are being violated.

ON WEDNESDAY of this very week, Walter S. Robertson, the assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, made a speech at Bloomington, Ill., in which he said:

"In 1950, having been in power less than a year, Red China invaded Korea and was promptly branded an aggressor against the peace of the world by United Nations resolution. That resolution is still outstanding.

"If Red China was an aggressor in 1950, it is an aggressor in 1957. Its armies are still in military occupation of North Korea. It has shown complete disregard for international commitments made on its own account.

"Signing an armistice in Korea in July 1953 calling for the exchange of all war prisoners, it held back groups of our prisoners and later bargained for their release. It brought into North Korea hundreds of modern airplanes and other combat equipment prohibited by the armistice agreement."

CONGRESS HAS by law forbidden Americans to engage in any trade or transactions with the Red Chinese, American correspondents who take American money into China violate the law of the United States.

If certain members of the press can ignore the laws governing trade with the Red Chinese and escape prosecution, what will be said to businessmen who attempt to defy their own government and violate its laws governing exchange control?

So far as Congress and the State Department are concerned, the boys who were killed or wounded in Korea have not been forgotten. There is still a state of war with the Red Chinese and America rightly refuses to change its policies until Red China has released all the American prisoners and atoned for its crimes.

Slippery Proposition

By TRUMAN TWILL

Everybody who amounts to anything in this republic will be on his best behavior while King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia is here. Oil is a slippery proposition.

It will be so stuffy that the only people acting natural during the big oil man's visit will be urchins of democracy who are no more impressed by kings from Arab than by tycoons from Upper Bracket, Texas.

We do have some suggestions to make, however, about the entertainment of Ibn Saud while he is with us. The State Department boys are not likely to think of it.

Chances are the king never has realized while living it up with his multiple wives and zipping about in his gold motor scooters what he has to thank for the oil royalties that keep the wolf from his door.

He should have a chance to loosen up his innards on a 100-mile jaunt in one of those giant over-the-road rigs whose fuel needs help to make him one of the most important men in the world.

He would learn a good deal from parking at a busy intersection between 6 and 9 a.m. to see thousands of working stiff's buzzing to their posts of duty in the U.S. flivvers that have made oil more important here than rice in China.

He would pop his limpid brown eyes if he made the before-lunch rounds with the driver of a fuel truck servicing a suburban neighborhood.

He should have some idea of the oil thirst of an airplane that pushes itself around the world in two days.

It would be an oversight if he had no first-hand idea of the oil requirements of railroad engines, ships, earth movers, bulldozers and heavy industry.

What would be the purpose of this indoctrination?

Simply to make sure he never thinks his wealth is pumped out of the ground.

Oil doesn't become wealth until the energy it contains is converted by the energy of human things. With all due respect to Saudi Arabia, other Middle Eastern principalities, Texas and all places where oil is pumped out of the ground, their kings and potentates, also Co. Nasser of Egypt and the tycoons from Dallas and Houston need to get hep about the facts of life.

Their wealth is created by the initiative and energy of others. They have no use for oil themselves. The fact they were born sitting on it was a break in their favor, but the possibility they might be left sitting on it with no more royalties coming in is a thought for all urchins of democracy to build dreams on.

The State Department does not feel the same way but that is of no importance, because it often happens that the State Department differs from us urchins temporarily. It does not trust us around its distinguished personages, and we do not blame it. When Tito comes, if he ever does, we wouldn't trust ourselves any further than we could throw Ibn Saud.

So They Say

In my book, one who performs honorable military service in time of war or national emergency or subjects himself to call for such service at a moment's notice, has every right to resent being tagged as a draft dodger, as Mr. (Charles E.) Wilson unfortunately has chosen to call him. — Maj. Gen. E. A. Walsh, president of the National Guard Association, answering Defense Secretary Wilson's charge that the Guard was used by young men as "draft-dodging business."

If any of our people fool with racketeers, by the eternal God and the racketeers will go to jail. — United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald.

'Let's Quit While We're Ahead'

U. S. Atomic Weapons For Britain

By JAY G. HAYDEN

Assuming only that Congress does not inject a monkey wrench, the accomplishment of Duncan Sandys, the new British defense minister, in his visit to the U.S. should go a long way toward assuaging his country's discontent over lack of American support in the abortive Suez venture.

Reporting to the House of Commons, Mr. Sandys announced "full accord" with the Eisenhower administration, including "particular" cooperation on guided missiles.

He explained to American officials, he said, that "for economic as well as military reasons" the new British cabinet, headed by Harold Macmillan, was "reviewing the shape and size of our forces and that the government had decided that a substantial reduction... must be affected. I found in Washington sympathetic understanding of the circumstances which make it necessary for us to lighten our defense burden."

Translated in the light of earlier reports as to objective of the Sandys mission, this means that President Eisenhower and Secretary Wilson, to the extent that they are able, have agreed to supply Britain with our best death-dealing missiles to offset a decrease in British military manpower.

"THE IDEAL RESULT," as the London Economist previously had explained, "would be so to dovetail production that Britain should tie up its productive capacity and research resources only in projects in which the technical and industrial lead is held this side of the Atlantic."

"Where the Americans are ahead—as they are with most types of missile—Britain should try to exchange the know-how in the work done so far for firm undertakings (they must be very firm) to sell or supply the equipment as part of an integrated Allied defense effort."

But, as the Economist suggested, there was a big catch, due to the U.S. congressional enactment which forbids sharing with any foreigners of American atomic information. Unless that obstacle could be overcome, the British weekly said, "Britain" would have to continue work on atomic warheads for missiles.

Neither Mr. Sandys nor American official spokesmen so far have supplied any inkling as to how far the present agreement goes toward relieving the atomic exclusion. But it is fairly certain that President Eisenhower will have to ask Congress for changes in law with that respect.

THE NEED IS by no means all British. The crux of West Germany's recent revision of military plans is a reduction from its original promise of 500,000 foot soldiers by end of 1958, in exchange for improved equipment—especially missiles and atomic artillery, which only the U.S. can supply at this moment.

The prevailing U.S. law on the subject of disclosing U.S. atomic secrets arose from a memorandum signed secretly by President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, stipulating that neither the U.S. nor Great Britain would explode an atomic bomb against any enemy without the other's consent.

When Sen. Vandenberg discovered that bilateral commitment he refused to go ahead with the Marshall Plan for economic relief of Europe until it was eradicated.

There followed the law, passed by the Republican Congress and signed by President Truman, strictly limiting disclosure of U.S. atomic secrets to any nation.

However, times now have changed. Russia is reputed to stand second only to the United States in production of atomic weapons. And other nations, especially Britain and Canada, have taken great strides in that line.

MOST IMPORTANT of all, atomic power no longer is represented by an all-destroying bomb, delivered by airplane. All sorts of lesser atomic weapons have been developed and added to normal equipment, aerial, military and naval.

Only last week President Eisenhower, asked whether U.S. atomic weapons might be used in carrying out his Far Eastern doctrine, replied in effect that such weapons now were in such general use that American forces scarcely could fight anywhere without using them.

Both as to Great Britain and Germany, the clear inference is that they are to train their military personnel largely to man atomic weapons, which for the time being American factories mostly will supply.

Quakes Getting Milder?

By THOMAS R. HENRY

Earthquakes are getting milder. Between 1896 and 1906 the annual average of energy released by earthquakes was nearly three times the average between 1907 and 1955.

This conclusion is reported to the American Geophysical Union by Dr. Bruno Gutenberg of California Institute of Technology, one of the world's foremost earthquake experts.

His findings are based on a statistical study of all reported shocks since 1896. Previous records were too unreliable for any conclusions.

The ultimate source of the energy released in quakes, sufficient to destroy great cities and knock down mountains, is the heat produced by radioactive processes in the interior of the earth.

This amounts, it has been calculated, to ten trillion quadrillion ergs annually while the average energy released in the recorded years between 1896 and 1906 was only twenty billion quadrillion ergs. The record year, 1907, showed a release of 50 billion quadrillion ergs. An erg is the smallest unit for measuring energy.

Earthquakes obviously are releasing only a relatively small part of the energy available to them.

Many questions remain unanswered. What, asks Dr. Gutenberg, caused the rather sudden decrease in seismic activity after 1907? Was the activity unusually great before 1907 or has it been unusually small since then?

There is a possibility, he points out, that there may be earthquake cycles, somewhat similar to weather cycles, which could be used to predict the extent of damage to be expected.

The extent of such cycles, if they exist, cannot be determined until reliable records extending over much greater periods.

The Rising Cost Of Living

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — What to do about the rising cost of living? Should — or can — the government stop it? Or should we wait for natural economic laws to apply the brake—with the possibility that a revolt by the buying public will put an end to rising prices and perhaps also to full employment?

Federal controls over business and labor would be widely unpopular with both. Mere talk about it by President Eisenhower sent a momentary shiver through the stock market.

Voluntary restraint in raising prices and wages seems an awful lot to hope for, human nature being what it is.

And so, apparently, is restraint in raising governmental spending and taxes. Governmental spending helps feed inflation.

All these gloomy prospects are being discussed both in Washington and in industrial centers, along with some talk that the present extent of inflation isn't hurting many people too much—yet. The budget is being held in balance, although spending has been rising. Getting most of the blame for inflation here has been the round of raising wages and prices.

The Department of Commerce reports that last year the rise in wages and salaries came to 7 per cent, adding 15 billion dollars to personal income totals. Out of that 15 billion, Americans have been paying the higher prices for goods and services that have sent the cost of living up 3 per cent.

It is this rise in wages and prices that the President says the government must try to control if business and labor don't do the job themselves. But while most people deplore the rise in the cost of living, the individual businessman will tell you he had to raise prices on his own goods, and the individual worker will tell you he needs more money and doesn't think that the rise in his own paycheck should send prices up.

It's always: The other fellow should do it.

Once Over

Dizzy Zone Life

We lost face in Miami Beach the other day. . . We took a room in a hotel that was fully completed. . . We called up the desk at once. . . "What's the trouble?" asked the manager. . . "It's two weeks older than represented," we told him.

Hotels are going up so fast that when you depart for Florida your friends ask, "Are you booked in a used hotel or a new one?"

If you land in one that has been opened six months you are traveling second class. We hear that one fast-moving operator has a new idea: He will open a new hotel one fresh floor at a time.

But he will find no happiness. There will be constant friction between the guests on the older floors and those on the ones in which the cement is still soft.

THE MIAMI BEACH waterfront is the most fantastic on earth. You have to see it to believe it. And even then you want verification.

Fifteen years ago it had a dozen big waterfront hotels. Today it has them in the hundreds. And each builder strives for a blueprint that will combine the features of Versailles Palace, the Taj Mahal, King Solomon's temples, Aladdin's wildest dream, the Waldorf - Astoria and the Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

People actually go to Miami Beach to see the hotels as much as to stay in them. Lobbies are jammed with beach-hotel guests inspecting visitors from other hotels.

There are visitors registered in last season's hotels who use the lobbies of this year's hotels for loitering, reading, smoking and making impressions.

YOU CAN BOAST that you are stopping at a 1956 hotel and get the reply, "I thought they had torn that one down already."

An architect who comes through on Tuesday with a blueprint showing the same shape windows he showed on Monday might as well go out of business. He can't even save himself by suggesting a different type lagoon in the lobby and eight particularly mysterious statues on the mezzanine.

Luxury is the keynote and it is subject to change without notice. There is a current story that a famous architect threw himself to the barricade in shame over the fact he could think up no new designs for elevators.

AND MOTELS! Brother, you should see 'em. They look much like the big hotels, but have animals and ships in front. We saw one super-duper motel across the lawn on which were an elephant, four camels, a covered wagon, two tallyhons and a few figures suggesting the Tournament of Roses Parade. It was distinctive from the one across the street, which had no elephant.

A TESTIMONIAL BANQUET is to be given Jimmy Durante at the Waldorf on St. Patrick's night (Good - night Mrs. McCallosh wherever you are.)

Conrad Hilton is reported acquiring the Savoy-Plaza in New York. . . "Count that day lost and ring the bell when Hilton gets no new hotel."

Life's Most Pathetic Case: The fellow who took his tropical vacation in January and realizes that his skin will be a ghostly white again when his friends get back with the deep tan they got in February.

The honeymoon is over when the groom finds himself shoving one of those steel carts around a supermarket for her.

Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus

Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus Will Appear Here Wednesday

The Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus will sing in the Salem High School auditorium Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Community Concerts Association.

One of the unique new attractions of the American concert stage, the program will include classics, carols, folk songs, Mexican novelties and westerns.

Its present director an Englishman named Edwardo Caso, founded the chorus in 1939 soon after his arrival in Tucson. The chorus with an original membership of eight boys now has an aggregation of more than 100, ranging in age from 8 to 16. The touring chorus is made up of the 30 best voices in the senior and intermediate groups.

Concert tours of Arizona gradually expanded to include the entire Southwest and the boys frequently appeared on radio and television programs. The boys were also enthusiastically received at the Chicago Fair on Arizona Day, at an International Convention of Rotary Clubs in Atlantic City, and at the National Capitol. A high point in their sweep through the East was a recital in New York's Town Hall.

Radio and television, including an appearance on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town," also figured in their Eastern itinerary. During their trip East, the chorus was signed by Columbia Artists Management. Under Columbia's sponsorship, the Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus made a sold-out national tour the winter of 1953. Every season since, the chorus has filled a solidly booked tour throughout the country.

During June and July of 1955, Caso led his "Ambassadors in Levis" on their first tour of Europe. A return tour has been scheduled for this spring.

All members of the chorus are Tucson boys, and most of them are students of the public schools. They are selected at auditions held three times a year.

During the summers, the boys attend a session of the "76" Cattle Ranch in Southern Arizona where they undergo intensive training and rehearsal and participate in the routine of ranch life.

In last year's annual Tucson Rodeo, the chorus won the grand prize for the best riding group. Their horsemanship has won them many television engagements, and recently 18 to 30 of the boys have been featured in a number of juvenile film productions for release on television.

To add flavor to liver, marinate the liver slices in your favorite barbecue sauce for half an hour before pan frying or broiling.

Bailey and Mrs. Otto Ullom were hostesses to the more than 40 in attendance.

Mrs. Ivan Harrold, program leader, presented the monthly study topic in connection with the year's theme, "The Church Our Household of Faith." Mrs. Harrold was assisted by Mrs. Tom Jones, Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. Garnet Campbell. Mrs. Minnie Figley led the devotions.

Mrs. Charles Morlan presided at the business session. Announcement was made of World Day of Prayer Service scheduled for March 8 at 8 p.m. in the church. Families are asked to attend the service in family groups. The Lisbon Council of Church Women is cooperating with St. Jacob's Church in the observance.

Departmental chairmen gave the following reports: spiritual life, Mrs. Kenneth Clapsaddle reminded the women of their thank offering boxes and told of the spiritual benefits of giving thanks.

Missionary chairman, Mrs. Wilbur Arter, led the group in prayer for the missionaries on the field and announced that the new year book contains the latest addresses of missionaries so that members may correspond with them.

The stewardship paper, prepared by Mrs. Clifford Farmer, was read by Mrs. Delbert Sittler. Carl Capel REAL ESTATE

Every once in a while we are asked to try selling a house that hardly anyone is likely to buy, except at a very low price. That's because the house has one big, obvious drawback to it. I don't mean a place that is simply dilapidated. I mean one that has some basic physical fault, such as no space for a garage, no back yard, an obviously poorly planned interior, or something of that sort.

Or it may be something outside the property itself, such as an objectionable situation next door—perhaps a supermarket, a drive-in restaurant or a school—any of which would be enough to rob you of any reasonable peace and quiet.

What should you do if you own such a house and want to sell it? The first thing you should consider is whether you could spend some money on the place to correct whatever is wrong. A poorly planned interior, for instance, can be remodeled.

Whatever the problem is, get a sound estimate of the cost, and then think seriously about whether such a job would pay for itself by helping you sell the house easily at a reasonable price.

If the trouble is outside the property, you might find some way of closing the yard off with a high fence or hedge, to give maximum privacy.

But whatever can be done, do it before you put the house up for sale. That's far better than trying to convince a prospective buyer that he could do the same thing. The simpler you make it sound to him, the more he'll wonder why you haven't done the job yourself.

Wife, 5 Sons, Another Boy Drown In Car

Driver Faces 7 Counts Of Manslaughter After Mishap

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Seven counts of manslaughter were charged Sunday against Ralph Evans, whose wife and five sons drowned with another lad in the plunge of Evans' car into a stream Saturday night.

"It was an unavoidable accident," Evans said in a Dade County Jail cell. "You can't get manslaughter out of it."

Bail was set at $5,000 for arraignment before Peace Justice Hugh Duval, who issued manslaughter warrants to Constable W. M. Hudson.

The constable said mechanical condition of Evans' 11-year-old car was the basis of the charges.

Evans was quoted at Hialeah Gardens police station Saturday night as saying his brakes failed in an attempt to straighten out after a turn. At the jail, he told newsmen he believed the brakes held and blamed the accident on refusal of the car to straighten out on loose gravel.

Evans, 50-year-old Hialeah Gardens junk dealer, and Edwin McDonough, 58, an acquaintance, were only survivors of a party of nine the car carried into eight feet of water near Evans' home.

The two men struggled through an open window on the driver's side and said they tried in vain to extricate Mrs. Teresa Evans, 2, and the six children trapped in the overturned car.

Two Escape Unhurt After Freak Mishap

YOUNGSTOWN — A police ambulance crewman and an accident victim on a stretcher narrowly escaped injury early Sunday when a car skidded into an accident scene in front of South High School.

Patrolman John Updegraff, 34, was preparing to lift Charles B. Perry, 25, into the ambulance when a car driven by Ray L. McClure, 22, passed over the stretcher and forced Updegraff against the ambulance.

Updegraff was not hurt. Perry, who received minor injuries in a three-car accident a few minutes earlier, had no further injuries as a result of the car passing over him.

Perry was charged with failure to yield the right of way in the first accident.

McClure was charged with carrying an illegal knife, found when he was searched by Updegraff.

George Liberace Slugged, Robbed

CHICAGO (AP)—Bandleader George Liberace was slugged and robbed today while returning to a north side hotel from the night club where he is appearing with his pianist brother.

Doctors said a total of 16 stitches were required to close three deep lacerations on the head and face.

The robbers took his violin which is insured for $25,000, $50 in cash and a diamond studded ring shaped like a violin and valued at $1,500, Liberace said.

He told police two negroes jumped him from behind a parked car as he walked toward his hotel.

on the measures to preserve order until Israel agreed to withdraw. Israel's top spokesmen at the U.N. repeated their government's demand that Egypt give guarantees against new Arab raids from the Gaza Strip and against a new Egyptian blockade of Israeli shipping in the gulf, the waterway between the Red Sea and the southern Israeli port of Eilat.

An informed source in Tel Aviv said Israel now was also demanding that she be promised passage for her shipping through the Suez Canal.

The Assembly was expected to meet in a few days, perhaps tomorrow, to take up Hammarskjöld's report.

Mrs. Golda Meir, Israeli foreign minister, told a reporter she doubted the Assembly would vote penalties. But she said if it did, "suffering in Israel and hardships due to economic pressure will not change our position."

Abba Eban, Israeli ambassador to the U.N. and Washington, told a television interviewer a declaration of nonbelligerence against Israel from Egyptian President Nasser or Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi would be important. But he added, "It would still be necessary, of course, to guarantee its implementation."

Five Men Attack Phone Co. Employee

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Renewed violence broke out here Sunday, police said, when a supervisor for the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. was injured by a band of brick-throwing men.

Police said the supervisor, J. M. Southerland, apparently suffered cuts on his hands and ribs when five men attacked him with bricks while he was atop a utility pole repairing a slashed cable. Southerland was taken to a hospital for observation, police said.

The five men broke a windshield in a company truck while Southerland was under attack, officers said.

Nine more cable-slappings were reported here by the company, officers reported, bringing to 20 the number of cuttings reported since Jan. 1.

The Communications Workers of America (CWA) has been on strike against Ohio Consolidated since last July 15. Failure to agree on provisions of a new contract has blocked settlement.

Five-Cent Letter Postage Is Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department is asking Congress to require a 5-cent stamp on letter mail to avoid a deficit it said could reach a billion dollars a year.

That estimate came from Maurice H. Stans, deputy postmaster general, in testimony which the House Appropriations Committee made public Sunday.

Stans said the Eisenhower administration will ask a 5-cent letter rate. He said "we cannot face up to" the deficit problem otherwise.

President Eisenhower said in his budget message last month that he would ask for 654 million dollars in annual postal rate boosts. Congress is expected to be asked to increase air mail rates from 6 to 8 cents an ounce, and to boost rates on second-class (newspaper and magazine) matter, and on third-class (advertising) mail.

Cleveland Driver Cited After Mishap

One man was arrested as a result of one of two auto accidents that occurred Saturday and Sunday on area roads.

Earl Campbell, 21, of Cleveland was cited for failing to stop in the assured clear distance ahead following a three-car mishap at the intersection of Rt. 30 and Rt. 170, two miles north of East Liverpool, Saturday at 9:50 p.m.

Patrolmen said Campbell's car struck the rear of an auto operated by John Reese, 27, of East Liverpool. Reese's car was forced across the highway where it collided with an auto driven by Donald Woodburn, 45, of Rogers.

Cars driven by Ross Chaplow, 31, of New Waterford and Arch Beilhart, 73, of Leetonia collided Sunday at 7:15 p.m. on Rt. 46, one mile west of East Palestine.

Leetonia School Board To Award Contracts

The Leetonia Board of Education will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 in the high school building to award the contracts for the village school building project. Superintendent Paul Hayes said today.

The project includes three new buildings and an addition. A 20-room elementary school at Orchard Hill, a four-room primary unit on the village's south side, and a building at Washingtonville School will comprise the main building projects. The addition will be a music room to be constructed at the North Side High School.

Bids were opened Monday, Jan. 28. Low bids totaled $663,353.19. Since state aid is being given in the project, board officials have been waiting for the state's report on bids received, Superintendent Hayes says.

British Public Told About Split Rumors

LONDON (AP)—The British public finally learned at breakfast today about worldwide rumors of a rift between Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Breaking a three-day silence, morning newspapers published the reports coupled with an official denial by a Buckingham Palace spokesman, Cmdr. Richard Colville.

The papers referred to the report of royal matrimonial troubles as a "silly rumor" and "baseless speculation."

The afternoon papers ignored the reports entirely. The Queen, Princess Margaret and Queen Mother Elizabeth were expected back in London sometime today after a short stay at Windsor.

The duke is at Gibraltar finishing a four-month round-the-world trip. He will be reunited with the Queen in Lisbon Saturday, two days before they begin a state visit to Portugal.

Completion of the painting of City Hall by the New Waterford Painting Co. is anticipated by March 2, Service Director James Failer reported today.

The company began a painting of the City Hall Feb. 1 at a contract cost of $2,950 after underbidding seven other firms in bids opened Jan. 30.

At the present time, Failer stated, the company is painting the dormitory room of the fire department. The interior walls of the building will be painted green and the ceilings, ivory.

Interior painting will include the fire station, the basement, windows and the jail cells, Failer reported. The company will also paint the exterior of the building.

22 Million Americans Now Listed As Vets

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are now 22 million persons in the United States classified as veterans.

Rep. Thomas (D-Tex.) said today this information was furnished to the House Appropriations subcommittee heads. These veterans with their families, account for 75 million of the country's nearly 170 million population, he added.

Observing that a veteran is legally defined as a person who has had military duty and has been discharged, Thomas added:

"If present world tensions keep up for many more years, requiring us to maintain large armed forces, just about all males of 18 years and over will be veterans."

He estimated "veterans expense" to taxpayers at 66 billion dollars since 1945.

three robberies committed here Saturday.

Weissert said no motive has been found yet for the slayings. He said McCoy was considered "temperamental and moody."

Police theorized McCoy came straight to Columbus after seeing the cabin go up in flames.

In little more than an hour, they said, McCoy robbed the Red Star Grill here, a poultry market and a cafe for a total of about $255. At all three places, police said, he was armed with .38 and .22 calibre revolvers.

Clerk Identified Car A clerk at the poultry market identified the car. When it was found here Saturday night, police staked it out hoping McCoy would return for it, but when he failed to appear the auto was impounded to be checked for fingerprints.

The fire at the Sees' cabin was discovered by Lowell Hardesty, a neighbor youth, who notified firemen from New Concord when he could not get past the cabin's locked doors and windows.

Charles See, the 24-year-old son of Mrs. See, was believed at first to be caught in the fire, but he turned up at the cabin later and explained he had been working.

Weissert said McCoy, who is separated from his wife, Beulah, who lives in Zanesville, moved in with the Sees about two years ago after he was dishonorably discharged from the Army for being what the officer said was a "confirmed AWOL."

Game time is slated for 7 p.m. with the reserve game on tap first.

Guilford Lake Fish Program Announced

The fish program for Guilford Lake for 1957 has been announced by State Representative Clarence L. Wetzel of Lisbon.

E. L. Wickliffe, John Pelton, in charge of fish management for the State of Ohio, and District Three Chief Daniel Armbruster will poison small bays where the rough fish spawn, starting in April, Wetzel said.

They will also place 12 large nets in the lake starting the last two weeks in May and continuing through June to catch and dispose of rough fish.

They then will re-stock the lake with two tons of wall-eyes and about 2,400 yearling large mouth bass approximately 8-9 inches long.

A contract will be let today for the construction of the $15,000 public bathing beach on the north side of the lake. The bathing strip will be 600 feet long. The project calls for grading and sanding of the beach area, construction of a large parking area and entrance roads.

Change booths for swimmers will be erected, toilet facilities provided and a well dug for drinking water.

Funds for the project were allocated last June by the Division of Parks after Rep. Wetzel received approval in the last session of the state legislature.

School's Athletic Program To End

$325,000 Awarded to Injured Football Player

DUNSMUIR Calif. (AP) — Duns-muir Joint Union High School's principal predicted the end of its athletic program today after a jury awarded $325,000 to a boy who was injured in a football accident.

Principal Delwin Poe said "It means the end of the high school athletic program" and added "they'll have to call off all contact sports."

A jury at nearby Redding awarded the money Sunday to Anthony L. Welch, 18, who was paralyzed from the waist down Sept. 10, 1955 in a pre-season scrimmage between Duns-muir and Enterprise teams.

The school carries liability insurance for $200,000 but the remainder is almost as much as the $130,000 the schools spends annually to educate its 270 pupils.

Poe contended the jury "failed to take into consideration any assumption of personal risk—on the part of the boy.

While some in this mountain town of 2,500 persons talked of closing the school Poe said he and the district's lawyers were exploring the possibilities of appealing the verdict.

The jury returned its verdict after more than 10 hours of deliberation.

Young Welch was brought to the court in a stretcher from Vallejo where he receives treatment at Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

The suit was filed by the boy's mother Mrs. Gladys Welch now a clerk in a Long Beach Calif. drug store. She originally asked $672,000 in damages charging Duns-muir Coach Paul Reginato was negligent in having the boy moved to the sidelines too soon after he was injured.

The win brought the Sam Pridon-coached five's season mark to 12 victories and one setback, that at the hands of the Bobcats 45-38 earlier in the year at Greenford which ended a 16-game winning streak held by the locals and a 15-game winning streak chalked up by Coach Pridon.

SALEM WAS SPARKED by the scoring of Jim Lehwald who accounted for 17 of the Quakers' 55.

In the third-quarter Salem really poured it on meshing the nets for 32 points, and at the end of the period Salem led 70-37.

Eddie Stafane, Bob Lutch, and Matt Klein tallied 20, 18 and 16 points, respectively, for the winners, and Jim Ohogolli scored 12 points for the losers.

Macias Knocks Out Cardenas In Sixth

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Raul (Raton) Macias figures he's about as much of a batamweight champion as you can find.

He looked like it Sunday night in battering Juan Cardenas of Spain around before delivering a knockout punch in the sixth round.

He knocked the Spaniard down nine times in all, in the non-title fight.

Macias, National Boxing Assn. champion, had looked forward to the encounter as a basis of comparison with Mario D'Agata of Italy, recognized as world champion by the World Championship Commission in Paris.

After he had mauled the Spaniard and finally disposed of him with three left jabs to the liver, Macias said:

"Well, I hope I have convinced the fans once more that there should be only one batamweight champion of the world," meaning, of course, himself.

Three Players Battle For Scoring Honors

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Shooting for the individual scoring title in major college basketball this season is akin to swapping fish stories. The first liar's dead.

The race among Grady Wallace of South Carolina, Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain of Kansas and Chet (The jet) Forte of Columbia sees a new leader virtually every time they play. At the moment, it's Wallace, a 6-4 senior from Mare Creek, Ky., who has the edge.

It was Forte, a 5-9 runt, who finally tripped seven-foot Chamberlain out of first place last Wednesday when neither Wilt nor Wallace was in action. The next night, Wallace took a big jump into contention—while Wilt and Forte were idle.

Then Saturday, Wallace barged all the way to the top, scoring 45 points while the Gamecocks were being bagged by North Carolina State 98-85. Chamberlain, wilting of late, managed a mere 26 in Kansas' 69-54 job on Nebraska.

And Forte practically was shut out, getting only 17 as Columbia clubbed Navy 83-70.

At the moment Wallace's average stands at 30.2; Chamberlain's at 29.5 and Forte's at 29.3. None of the three play tonight.

Wallace and Chamberlain will be at it again Tuesday night, however. Wallace seems to have the edge. He'll be going against Clemson on a foreign court, but Wilt, while at home, will be up against defense-conscious Oklahoma A & M.

Forte gets his crack Wednesday against Penn. at home.

There are only a few conference championship races to challenge the closeness of the individual scoring battle. Four, to be exact.

In the mixed-up Big Ten, Indiana can retain its new No. 1 spot by dumping pesky Minnesota at Bloomington, Ind., tonight. Runner-up Ohio State (3) is idle.

But Purdue, third at 5-3, is at home to late-surgng Michigan State (4-3).

In the Pacific Coast Conference, California (8-0), with a 62-51 victory over Oregon State, became the undisputed leader as UCLA's 23-game conference winning streak was ended by Washington 90-74. Cal and UCLA meet March 1-2.

In the Ivy League, Yale climbed past Princeton by giving the Tigers their first league defeat 74-60. The Elis are 6-1 to the Tigers' 5-1.

The Missouri Valley could get straightened out this week. Bradley, 6-0 and unbeaten at home all season, welcomes St. Louis Wednesday. St. Louis is tied for second with Wichita, both 7-1—and set to meet in St. Louis Saturday.

TO OPEN THE FIRST eight minutes Lehwald pumped in a two-point lead to give the Red and Black a 2-0 lead. The Bobcats came back and tied up the tilt at 2-2 on two foul shots by Dustman. However, Salem moved ahead 4-2 on a basket by Ed Yates and thereafter the Greenford reserve five could not catch up to the fast-stepping Salemites.

Paced by Lehwald and Davy Hunter with six and four tallies, respectively, the locals ran the count to 17-13 at the end of the initial canto.

Lodwich caged four markers for the visitors in the period.

In the second frame the Red and Black chalked up eight tallies to move into a 12-point-bulge 25-13 before Greenford pulled its forces together.

LODWITH and Mincher cut the deficit to 25-16, but the Quakers put the damper on the Greenford team, limiting the Bobcats to six tallies in the frame while picking up 14 themselves. At the half the Pridonmen were in command 31-19.

Throughout the first 16 minutes Ned Chappell played his best game of the year. He connected on two timely baskets and was a stand-out on defense.

Starting the third stanza Yates hit for two and then Lodwich countered with a marker to leave Salem still with a 13-point advantage 33-20. The Quakers then picked up seven consecutive markers to break the contest wide open and move into a 20-point lead 40-20 with two minutes remaining in the third frame.

THE SALEMITES racked up 15 more points while holding the offense of the Bobcats to seven markers to take a 46-26 advantage after three cantos.

In the final stanza both coaches substituted freely. The Bobcats, coming into their form of the initial quarter, outscored the Quakers 12-9 in the frame, but the big lead the Salemites had built up was not affected.

Lodwich sparked the Greenford five with six markers on beautiful jump shots.

Salem next will tangle with the Boardman Spartans yearlings Tuesday in the local gym at 4 p.m.

Jack Dempsey's KO Of Jess Willard Rated As 'Most Brutal' In Boxing

(EDITORS NOTE: Nat Fleischer is boxing's official historian. For 51 years, through a career as sports editor of the New York Telegram and now editor of the famed Ring Magazine and Ring Record Book, Nat has made boxing his life. He travels around the world frequently as the sport's good-will ambassador. Starting today, Fleischer writes of the most unforgettable fights he has seen in his career.)

By NAT FLEISCHER
Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Jess Willard was arrogantly confident as he entered the ring and went to his corner. He turned and smiled with contempt at his rival, Jack Dempsey, challenger for the heavyweight championship.

This was in Toledo on July 4, 1919 and the burning afternoon sun had the temperature at 120 degrees.

Dempsey, nervous, head down, straining at the leash, looked pathetic as he scowled during the referee's instructions. Willard, the tallest champion boxing had seen since the first glove championship fight in 1892, dwarfed his opponent.

BEADS OF PERSPIRATION covered both bodies as the fight began. They gave the appearance of persons just emerged from a steam bath. The tanned challenger circled about Willard, then moved in with cat-footed quickness, poked his left to the head, bobbed and weaved, then quickly stepped out of arm's reach.

Then he stepped in and crashed a powerful left to the mid-section that almost doubled-up Willard. That was the first sign of what was in store for the Kansas Giant as Dempsey, a young tiger with amazing speed and two murderous hands went to work.

The first round was not half over before Willard was a battered hulk. He was dazed, smashed out of all resemblance to anything human. Dempsey tore into him. His hands were in constant motion. They landed so fast, with such precision, that the eye could hardly follow them. At each clout, Willard's face was changed as if Dempsey were a clay sculptor dissatisfied with his work and deliberately obliterating it, feature by feature.

Then a crashing left hook sent Willard to the canvas. He had been moving about before this, charging occasionally but never landing. Now he was helpless. He got up, only to be hurled into the ropes as Dempsey smashed into him with a battering ram charge. Another left and Jess was down again.

DAZED BUT GAME, Willard got up again — and he went down with a crash as Dempsey tore into him. This time Willard crawled like a wounded animal, crouching with his back half-turned to Dempsey, as he worked himself up.

Dempsey gave no quarter. He hit Jess with hysterical fury and sent him down for a fourth time. Dempsey stood over his man and the instant Willard's knees were off the floor, Jack went into him again. He violated the rules, but rules meant nothing to Dempsey. All he knew was that his goal was victory and he would get it.

Willard reeled and wound up in a sitting position, his mouth streaming blood, his eyes bloodshot and glassy as they stared into space. Warren Barbour, later a U.S. Senator, struck the gong. Nobody heard it. The referee continued his count to "10." Dempsey's hand was raised and Jack Kearns, his manager, had him jump out of the ring and race for his dressing room. They had bet on a one-round knockout and Kearns was trying to steal it.

BUT THE REFEREE had spoken to Barbour and Kearns was told to bring Dempsey back. A surprised Dempsey returned. The bell for round two sounded and Willard got up from his stool to face the man-killer again! It was the surprise of the fight.

Willard proved his courage on this day. A champion to the end, he actually scored with right hands often enough to stop Dempsey in his tracks. In the third, Willard refused to go down. Tired, hurt, staggered, he was on his feet when the round ended. As Jess went to his corner, half-pushed, half-dragged, he was a pitiful sight. Two of his front teeth were on the canvas. His lips were cut, face butchered beyond recognition. It took only nine minutes of fighting for this to happen.

Ike O'Neill, his chief second, pleaded with him to quit. Willard listened, then called over Referee Pecord — a man of the old school who never stopped a championship fight on his own.

"I can't continue," Jess mumbled.

Pecord walked over to Dempsey and a new champion had been crowned — after the most brutal beating ever staged in the heavyweight division. A new champion who came down through the years as the most popular since John L. Sullivan, was there this day and it was a fight I cannot forget.

NEXT: Marciano shows his courage—and punch.

Canfield won its second game of the season against 16 losses Tuesday night in a cage contest against Springfield Local at Petersburg.

The Cardinals had to come from behind in the final quarter to gain the 51-48 victory.

The quarter scores were 12-10 27-22 and 39-34 with Springfield leading.

Roger Williams paced the Cardinals with 14 points. John Szyrak led the Springfield attack with 13 points.

Canfield's reserves won the preliminary contest 54-52.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

What's all this excitement about Dave Beck flying in the luxury of a BOAC airliner to some reunion in Vienna, in easy stages via the sands of Nasau? He's entirely with- in his constitutional rights — the Teamsters' c o n s t i t u t i o n , that is.

He's got to be careful of just one thing. He must make sure that when he calls for room service, he's someplace where they don't send up a U.S. subpoena. Otherwise, he's completely covered, for the Teamsters' constitution says:

"Article 5, Section 2:—TRAVEL PROVISIONS. The general president, for the purpose of promoting the interest and welfare of the international and the making of diplomatic contacts with other organizations and institutions and for the purpose of conserving his health, may in his discretion travel in this country or abroad and may take periodic rests.

"The General Executive Board shall provide for all expenses of the general president when performing the services mentioned herein or when taking periodic rests; the said expenses shall include travel in this country and abroad, the full and complete maintenance of his wife so that she can accompany the general president and all secretarial help and services which he deems necessary while engaged as afore referred to.

"THE EXPENSES provided for herein, are in addition to all other constitutional compensation and allowances."

Now the Senate investigating committee just doesn't happen to share this sensitive solicitude over Mr. Beck's conservation of health through "periodic rests". He has been in Europe several times in the past year.

He's undoubtedly also making some diplomatic moves. But the Senate probers are not at all impressed by these missions. Especially since they are financed by the union's tax-exempt funds.

So the Senate committee, we hear, is preparing some moves which may simply undo the newest health cure which Mr. Beck is forcing himself to take. These moves may be a little tough on his nervous system—not to mention the 40 million dollar Teamsters' treasury.

The Senate committee can be expected to ask the Treasury Department to move in on the Teamsters' books—without waiting for new tax laws.

Here is how some senators view Mr. Beck's oddities and odysseys. They have the quixotic idea that Mr. Beck didn't go abroad just for his health or "diplomatic" missions. Imagine that!

THERE IS an impression that he did not want to take the witness stand and give a yes or no answer to one question: "Will you order your local unions to bring in their records?"

Well, say some senators, Mr. Beck can have all the schlag he wants in Vienna's Sacher Hotel—for as long as he wants.

They don't need him to find what's in the unions' books. The Treasury Department has much of it right now in dusty archives.

Every union must file Form 990 if it wants to keep its tax exemption. This form tells the Treasury Department how much money was taken in and all information on the expenditures of funds and why they were spent.

This means a break-down of all income—dues, interest on investments from Wall Street, real estate and just garden variety bank interest.

There is another form filed by unions listing expenses paid to all union employees, exclusive of salary forms. If these papers are filed, the union continues to be tax exempt. But, says the Senate group, there is nothing to keep the Treasury agents from being just a little more curious than usual. The agents can go back and check the accuracy of these two forms.

NOW, IF THE Treasury agents go back to a local which has been careless enough to forget to lock its doors the night before and some silly sneak thief made off with all those bulky valuable ledgers—for they somehow fell into an ashtray and burned—or the local leaders just can't find them for a couple of years—there are no books to examine. So, there is then no way to determine the accuracy of these two forms. So there just cannot be any tax exemption.

The Senate special investigating committee members will say that this local should be taxed and this may cost the Teamsters a lot more than Mr. Beck's travel tabs—maybe millions more. So it may not be so gay for Beck in old Vienna. The Hall Syndicate

Gold In Andros

By HAL BOYLE

ANDROS TOWN, Bahamas (AP)—There is gold in the storied earth of legend haunted Andros, a mystery shrouded island as large as the rest of the Bahamian group put together.

But what kind of gold? The romanticists say that buried somewhere in the 1400 - square miles of Andros is treasure that today would be worth 25 million dollars or more — loot hidden by Sir Henry Morgan and other pirates in the heyday of the Spanish Main.

The realists say the real gold of Andros is in its real estate — and in its climate, which they say, will in time turn the island into another Gold Coast rivaling Florida.

The romanticists still turn up from time to time, poring over old treasure maps, still seeking the jewels and doubloons supposedly left behind by absent minded pirates. Unfortunately, even if they did come across loot left behind by ancient freebooters, by law they must turn it over to the Bahamian government, which doesn't believe in "finders keepers."

A leading realist is Dr. Axel L. Wenner-Gren, the Swedish industrialist. He is one of a number of financiers from several nations who are pouring millions of dollars of fresh capital into development projects throughout the Bahamas.

Two top inducements: the islands have no real personal income or inheritance taxes.

Wouldn't you like to spend your retirement years on a sunshine land where it never snows? ... where native household help is cheap and plentiful? ... where you can enjoy wonderful beaches and some of the world's finest fishing? ... where the income tax man knocketh never at your flower-covered pastel cottage? ... where, when you pass on, you can hand down your fortune intact to your grateful children instead of having to fork over the biggest wad to the government?

Even leaving out the question of taxes, Dr. Wenner-Gren and other industrialists feel many people with a pocketful of scratch yearn for an island paradise home.

Dr. Wenner-Gren has bought 100,000 acres on Andros Island bordering Fresh Creek (this is the only island in the Bahamas with fresh water streams), and is engaged in turning it into a giant resort colony.

Eventually his dream city, Andros Town, will be laced with canals—a semi-Venice, a second Fort Lauderdale.

In three years he has thrown up in former wilderness site of an abortive British government post-war farming project — a beautiful yacht club, a luxurious hotel, the lighthouse club (complete with a lighthouse guaranteed to be haunted), dredged a channel that will take the largest yachts, built a private beach, started a 10,000 acre farm, flown in a dozen milk cows (local joke: each quart of milk they produce still costs $10), and a 4,400-foot landing strip, putting the island only an hour away from Florida by direct flight.

Estimates of the money Dr. Wenner-Gren has spent on the project so far range between 4 and 17 million dollars.

Only with the sale of hundreds of building sites and the erection of homes on them can the project, however, hope to pay off.

Andros has seen the flowering and withering of many splendid visionary enterprises over the last 250 years that were to bring it lasting prosperity. All failed. There are many Bahamians who feel the Swedish industrialist will fail, too.

But Dr. Wenner-Gren doesn't.

Church Heads May Debate Sunday Schools

CINCINNATI (AP)—The education division of the National Council of Churches starts its annual conference here today, and a hassle over Sunday Schools may steal the show.
A council spokesman said that the 15 autonomous sections that make up the education division plan to give close scrutiny to church school methods and techniques.
He said that one focal point in the conference is a current magazine article (Life) on Sunday Schools by the Rev. Wesley Shriver, Yale faculty member, who says he thinks Sunday Schools should be improved.
One delegate, the Rev. Irvin E. Foster of New York, editor of the council publication International Journal of Christian Education, took issue with the magazine article which he said was "negative" and "inadequate."
The editor, hege for pre-conference meetings Saturday, said that he thinks the article ignores a "phenomenal" growth in the past 15 years in teaching techniques, subject matter and other facets of church schools.
Conference officials took a spot check of 12 to 14-year-old Sunday School students in the greater Cincinnati area Sunday and found 13 out of 60 students queried thought Sunday School was a waste of time, at least part of the time.
But others, they said, indicated they found Sunday School of great value.
German Refugee Girl Is Pie Baking Queen
YORK, Pa. (AP) — A 16-year-old German refugee girl is the new cherry pie baking queen of Pennsylvania — and she had never baked a cherry pie before last Christmas.
The winner, Heidi Nickey, who now lives at Littlestown, Pa., said she baked a cherry pie every day from Christmas until Jan. 24, when she captured the Adams County championship.
Heidi won the state title over the weekend, besting 13 county champions. Now she's an automatic candidate for the national cherry pie making competition in Chicago later this month.
Call money, a familiar term in Wall Street, is a short-term loan; that is, "over-night money."

Policeman Proves Horse Still Valuable To Force

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patrolman Jack Miller's motorcycle cranked up with an explosion as then started burning.
As Miller jumped off, the blazing machine toppled under an automobile.
Up rode patrolman Ed Lawson, whose mount is a horse called Chief, to take quick charge of a hot situation. With a lariat, Lawson lassoed the burning motorcycle and pulled it from beneath the car.
When the firemen he called had smothered the fire, Lawson remarked to Miller, with some satisfaction:
"This should teach you not to sell horses short."

Sees Foreign Aid Difficulties Ended

CINCINNATI (AP)—William Howard Taft III, American ambassador to Ireland, says he thinks the U.S. has ironed out difficulties that cropped up earlier in foreign aid.
Taft, here on a visit, said Sunday that typical problems occurred in Ireland where half of an 18 million dollar Marshall Plan gift made in 1951 has not yet been spent.
He said the basic problem is that Ireland has not been able to find ways to utilize the money, which America stipulates must be used to improve production efficiency.
"We should have first found the projects that needed doing," he said, "and then decided on the money we would give."
He said, "what we must realize is that a country which is technically backward has a difficult time finding things to do to improve its efficiency."
He said part of the remaining Ireland Marshall Plan funds will be used for a farm institute, a student exchange program and technical help he hopes to arrange later this month in Washington.

Come try the BIG BUY
(You can boss this Buick Special for little more than the price of a smaller car!)

ONE LOOK at that price figure and you'll know that—again in 1957—if you can afford a new car you can afford a Buick.

And look what you get for so little extra money. You get the most completely new Buick in years. Not just brand new in styling and brand new in body design. But new in features that make this the dream car of the year to drive.

You get brand-new performance because the engine is literally new from the crankshaft up.

You get a brand-new instant response because we engineered brand-new torque into Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

And to give you the new sure-footed safety of a lower center of gravity—we built a brand-new frame—which lowers the car, but keeps the headroom, legroom and footroom that a big car should have.

Fact is, there are more than 150 other chassis changes in this '57 Buick—waiting for you to try them. Do that soon—at your Buick dealer's.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional, at modest extra cost on the Special.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN
Blood Groups

There is an immense amount of confusion about blood groups and what they mean. This is not at all astonishing since the subject is a complicated one: there are many different blood groups and their names are meaningless.

One cannot tell by looking at a person what his blood type is. Neither does the particular blood type or group which a person carries have any direct bearing on general health or chances for a long life.

All of us have blood belonging to one of four major classifications: O, A, B and AB. The O and A types are the more common among us. Forty-five per cent of us have O blood and 43 per cent A blood. This leaves only eight out of 100 people with B blood and four of 100 who have AB blood.

These blood groups are of importance primarily when we are to receive or give a blood transfusion. The reason is that if a person with one of these types of blood receives blood from a person with a different type it may cause a serious reaction, commonly known as a "transfusion reaction." Any one who is to receive a transfusion should have his or her blood type determined before he gets it. The donor's blood type should also be known.

It is an interesting fact that group O blood does not usually produce harm in a transfusion, even when given to a person with a different blood group. For this reason a person with O-type blood is sometimes called a "universal donor."

In spite of this situation it is usually considered good practice, even when the blood types of both the receiver of blood and the giver are known, to do some direct cross-matching before the transfusion in order to make doubly sure of avoiding a hazardous reaction.

The other blood type which is of particular interest today apparently has no relation to the groups just mentioned, but is commonly referred to as the Rh factor. This was discovered much later than the four groups mentioned. With concentrated study, it has been found to consist of several subtypes. It is important, both from the standpoint of blood transfusion and from the standpoint of childbirth, and therefore it is commonly tested for today.

Harbinger of Early Spring?
Used Cars Up Sharply
At Wholesale Level

By Robert M. Lienert,
Associate Editor.

A flurry of activity sharply bolstered the used car market last week at the wholesale level, giving evidence of an earlier-than-usual spring upturn, according to field reports.

For the first time since last fall, bidding was brisk and persistent in the arenas, auction operators reported.

Pricewise, the market showed the strongest gains recorded since the middle of August. According to Automotive News' index the overall average price rose $10 to $981, with the increase extending to each individual model in the index.

Much of the strength last week was attributed to the fast-approaching spring selling season. One observer said there may have been a bit of "artificial" stimulation created by buyers trying to slip into the market ahead of anticipated spring price increases.

The upswing at the wholesale sale level is expected to spread within a few weeks' time to the retail market, where used cars have lain dormant most of the winter, due to a combination of foul weather and market apathy.

While no used car operator is willing to say that this winter saw the bottom fall out of the retail market, sales have been running far from the pace established during most of 1956.

The consensus is that the slowdown in retail used car sales, evident in the past six weeks, has marked a period of readjustment, and that spring will trigger another banner year.

Boy May Have Trouble Getting License

CHESTERFIELD, Utah (AP) — Melvin North may have trouble getting a driver's license after what happened.

Seated beside his sleeping father Melvin turned the key on, which started the car, yanked the automatic transmission into the drive position and fell on the gas pedal as the car rolled ahead, knocked another car off a jack — with owner underneath — and into a utility pole 50 feet ahead.

The owner of the other car, Elmer W. Ray, 25, escaped with a cut forehead. Melvin's father awoke unhurt. Melvin got a bruised lip — from the accident, not his father.

Though there's plenty of time, two-year-old Melvin already has a traffic violation record which could look bad when he applies for a license.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The College of Medicine at the University of Cincinnati will get a $36,905 grant this year to use as it sees fit.

Goodyear Co., Union Agree On Contract

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Union and company officials prepare today to obtain union-wide acceptance of a new master contract covering some 24,000 hourly employees of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

The company and representatives of the United Rubber Workers (URW) agreed on the contract Sunday after 25 days of negotiations. Agreements came just eight hours before the expiration of the old contract at midnight Sunday night.

The contract will have to receive approval of the URW International's executive board, and then must be accepted by a majority of the union's members.

Once that is accomplished, plants in each of 11 cities will have to ratify local supplemental agreements before the contract can go into effect.

Union and company officials said they expect the executive board and the entire union membership to approve the contract soon.

Plants covered by the contract are in Akron, Ohio; St. Marys, Ohio; Gadsden, Ala.; Jackson, Mich.; Muncie, Ind.; Lincoln, Neb.; Windsor, T.; New Bedford, Mass.; Topeka, Kan.; North Chicago, Ill.; and Los Angeles, Calif. A joint statement by the company and the union said that wages "were not a subject of the negotiations."

New parts of the contract, the statement said, deal with vacation schedules and other fringe benefits.

One provision would increase vacations from two and one-half to three weeks for employees with 11 to 14 years of service and from three to four weeks for employees with more than 25 years of service.

Other provisions standardize pay for lunch periods and increase bonuses for night work.

The Akron plant has about 14,000 employees. Another 10,000 are divided among Goodyear's other ten plants.

Maj. Gen. Archie J. Old Jr. Air Force commander confesses that's got him a little puzzled. And he has reason to mull it over because he led the three Air Force B52 jet bombers making a nonstop flight around the globe last month.

He was here to tell Air Force Academy cadets about the flight Sunday.
